

TRANSITION TO REACH Workshop

Aldwark Manor Hotel, Near Alne, York
24th April 2007, 10:30 am to 3:30pm

Why Attend?

REACH is said to replace over 40 existing regulations – but what are they? And whilst REACH comes into force in June this year, it really starts to kick into gear from June 2008. What happens in the meantime? How do we get from here to there?

That's where this workshop comes in.

Our Transition to REACH workshop is specifically designed to help you decide how best your company can continue to do business, to innovate - bringing new products to the market between now and June 2008, after which many of the existing regulations will no longer exist. It will give you practical help and guidance on what the changes mean for Notification of New Substances (NONS), Product & Process Research & Development, for crossing new substance supply thresholds, for Intermediates, for Safety Data Sheets and for Polymers.

We'll try not to make the testing you do today under NONS, NONSense under REACH!

Who Should Attend?

This workshop will be of value to business and regulatory managers and specialists who are, or who will be, manufacturing or importing new substances, polymers or intermediates between now and REACH being fully implemented in June 2008.

This event is aimed at chemical and toll manufacturers, importers and notification specialists.
